The Edward Lipiński Prize of the Polish Economic Society

KONKURS IM. PROF. E. LIPIŃSKIEGO

The Edward Lipiński Prize of the Polish Economic Society is one of the most prestigious distinctions in the field of economics in Poland. It is awarded for an outstanding scholarly book and aims to recognize authors whose publications make a significant contribution to the development of economic theory and practice and enhance our understanding of contemporary economic processes.

The prize not only promotes high-quality academic research but also encourages future generations of researchers to address innovative and relevant research questions of importance to the development of economics and socio-economic life.

"Economics in Practice—Your Idea for Success!" Competition

EKONOMIA W PRAKTYCE

Twój pomysł na sukces!

The "Economics in Practice—Your Idea for Success!" competition is a nationwide educational initiative supported by Biofarm, providing young people with an opportunity to present innovative ideas for applying economic knowledge to real-world challenges in everyday life, business, and the public sector.

The initiative aims to develop analytical thinking and promote a practical approach to economics as a tool for addressing real socio-economic problems.

The competition is open to upper-secondary school students from across Poland, who are encouraged to demonstrate how economics, combined with modern technologies such as artificial intelligence, digitalization and automation, can have a tangible impact on their immediate environment, including schools, households, businesses, and public institutions.

The competition is open to students at upper-secondary schools who are under 21 years of age. Projects may be submitted individually or in two-person teams.

The competition covers a broad range of applications of economic knowledge, including:

- efficiency and the development of new business ideas;
- sustainable resource management and development;
- science and engineering;
- medicine and biotechnology;
- culture and the arts;
- sports;
- household financial management;
- the public sector;
- addressing social problems.

The competition provides participants not only with an opportunity to gain valuable practical experience but also with a platform for presenting innovative approaches to economic education and demonstrating the practical relevance of economics in addressing contemporary challenges.
